

Prevention and Early Detection

- If detected early, cancer can often be treated successfully.

- More than 90 percent of women diagnosed with breast cancer at its earliest stage survive the disease.
- Adults should have regular cancer screening tests (for example bowel and breast) to help in early detection.

Adopting a healthy lifestyle (eating healthily and exercising regularly) is the best preventative measure you can take.

